

SOLAR LEADERSHIP SUMMIT... “2012 - A Tipping Point”

The Fourth Annual SolarTech Solar Leadership Summit is a high-impact event bringing together hundreds of

You are cordially invited to join SolarTech and other leaders on March 7th and 8th at The Hayes Mansion in San Jose, CA as we further develop market-directed solutions to accelerate solar’s permanent place in the U.S. energy mix.

By year end 2011, the global solar industry will once again reduce costs and grow faster than predicted by stock analysts. With over 10% of global electricity coming from burning high-cost diesel fuel and 20% of global electricity markets paying over $0.20/kWh – the solar industry still has a $10 trillion market available to it without subsidies.

This is our moment!

2012 Solar Leadership Summit attendees will:

- Identify remaining barriers to better align the capital markets with delivery of low-cost, low-risk projects.
- Build capacity in high-priority U.S. markets by accelerating best practices across the supply chain in order to reduce prices for consumers, expand the market, and create wealth.
- Further shape the Solar3.0 platform to impact solar markets through unifying metrics, messaging, standards, and best practices

Here is a partial list of our star-studded speaker line-up:

- Jon Wellingshoff, Chairman, FERC
- Adam Browning, Co-Founder & ED, VoteSolar
- Barbara Halsey, ED, CA Workforce Investment Board
- Jane Weissman, ED, IREC
- Nat Kremer, CEO, Clean Power Finance
- Ned Harvey, COO, Rocky Mountain Institute
- Ezra Auerbach – Executive Director, NABCEP
- Jurgen Krehnke, COO/President/GM SMA America
- Angiolo Laviziano – CEO, REC Solar

Please join us. Be there. Be a Leader.
